Headquartered in London with a developing network of regional hubs throughout England, Humana Europe is a provider of commissioning services for health and healthcare organisations.

As experts in medical management systems, we understand how people interact and engage with the healthcare system. Working together, we configure services to meet the unique needs of individual patients, helping them achieve happier, longer, and healthier lives.

Humana Europe is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Humana Inc., a health benefits company with 11 million members and 22,000 employees headquartered in Louisville, Kentucky. Humana has a 45-year legacy of excellence and achievement, a strong record of embracing innovative change in healthcare, and is recognised as a leader in engaging individuals in their health through our network of more than 400,000 physicians, hospitals, pharmacies and ancillary providers.

Humana Europe's leadership team combines the talents of frontline NHS health professionals, consumer engagement experts, developers of medical management systems and health policy analysts. Together, the leadership team enables Humana to drive forward the public health agenda and genuinely bring care closer to individuals.

A leader in configuring health services to enable better outcomes for patients, support for health professionals and realising financial balance for health organisations

Our approach is always one of partnership with healthcare organisations to ensure that we embrace existing best practice whilst introducing our own unique approach to health and healthcare. We design services into individually-tailored programmes which respond to patient needs and are easy to understand and easy to use so they ultimately improve well-being and quality of life whilst supporting interactions with health professionals.

Through this unique focus on the individual, we can help healthcare organisations improve health outcomes whilst achieving financial and performance targets and bend the trend of rising medical inflation over the years ahead.
