Response to BBC Panorama programme 7th July 2008

LONDON, UK – July 8th 2008 – Following the Panorama programme aired on the BBC last night (7th July 2008), Humana would like to correct the inaccurate comment made about them. Humana Europe provide commissioning support services to PCTs in England, they do not and never have provided health services to PCTs and therefore, contrary to suggestions made in the programme, there is absolutely no risk of a conflict of interest where Humana could influence a PCT to commission Humana services.

We would be more than happy to talk to the BBC to explain Humana's work in the UK and our commitment to an NHS that is free at the point of delivery.
